Oakland University

CITIZENSHIP AWARD IN ART AND ART HISTORY 2010

This annual award in Art and Art History was established in 2006 to acknowledge an undergraduate student who has shown extraordinary citizenship in art during the academic year. Anyone at the university or in the community may nominate a student for this award. Students, however, may not nominate themselves. The funds for this award have been provided by gifts to the department from faculty, staff, friends and alumni.

DEFINING THE AWARD: The Citizenship Award in Art and Art History is given to either a studio art or art history major who has volunteered to advance art at either Oakland University or in the community. EXAMPLES: an officer in La Pittura, organizing a public art exhibition, helping an arts organization (e.g. Paint Creek Center for the Arts), or serving as a docent in a museum. The student being nominated can not have received wages or other compensation for the work, and can not have received a departmental or university award in support of the work. However, s/he can receive Oakland University credit for the activity (e.g. internship).

ELIGIBILITY:

- The student being nominated must be a declared art history or studio art major in good standing,
- have been enrolled as a student at Oakland University for both the fall and winter semesters.

SIZE OF AWARD: $150.

QUESTIONS? Ask Professor Sally Tardella (324WH, 248.370.3384, tardella@oakland.edu), Chair of the Citizenship Award in Art and Art History Committee.
